Total Investment Charges (TIC): This ratio is simply the sum of the TER and TC, showing the percentage of the value of the fund incurred as costs relating to the investment of the fund. It should be noted that performance figures account for all costs included in the TIC ratio, so you should not deduct the TIC from performance figures, the performance is already net of the TIC.

Fund review

Over the quarter the A-class shares were up +0.32% (B: +0.20%; C: +0.27%; X: +0.58%). This compares with +0.53% return on the MSCI All Country World index.

Negative sector selection slightly outweighed a positive contribution from stock picking. The primary detractor relative to the index was the fund's structural underweight to energy stocks, which were spurred higher by the rally in the Brent crude oil price from $70 to $80 per barrel. The best performing stocks were UnitedHealth (positive results and upped quarterly dividend), Experian (consumer business turnaround) and MasterCard/Visa (strong underlying transaction volume growth). The largest underperformers were Banco Santander (impacted by political uncertainty in Italy and Spain), Starbucks (weak same store sales in the US and China) and iShares Emerging Markets ETF (US dollar strength and slower growth in the region).

Market overview

Global equities ended the second quarter marginally up. Investors were initially upbeat, bolstered by US corporations reporting the fastest rate of earnings growth for almost eight years. Earnings beats, higher oil prices and the prospect of an extended US business cycle enabled technology, energy and consumer discretionary to outperform. Politics was a fly-in-the-ointment. The chaotic formation of an anti-EU government in Italy and an escalation of the US-China trade war helped to erase earlier gains. Investors were further unnerved by hawkish statements from the Federal Reserve and European Central Bank indicating a gradual withdrawal of liquidity support for financial markets.

Looking ahead

By year end, global central bank liquidity will shrink for the first time since the 2008 financial crisis. Without a valuation agnostic buyer, investors are being forced to reconsider the price they pay to take risk. The withdrawal of US dollar liquidity by the Federal Reserve is already exerting stress upon some emerging economies with high levels of dollar dependence. Within equity markets an early casualty has been stable dividend paying "bond proxy" stocks, which are becoming increasingly less appealing when the alternative is to switch into virtually risk-free three-month LIBOR cash yielding 2.3% and rising. For now, investors are rewarding companies that can deliver healthy earnings growth. As such the fund has incrementally added to pro-cyclical names, including a Spanish bank and a US car mechanic tool maker, where we find valuations and growth that stack up against a higher interest rate environment.

Over the past two years, economists have transferred their anxieties from deflation to overheating economies. Fortunately, this later stage of the business cycle is not incompatible with higher equity returns so long as earnings growth remains on an upward trajectory and inflation does not spiral out of control, both of which we expect. The catch is that long term returns will be less than what we have been used to given elevated valuations, ageing populations, lower productivity and high levels of sovereign debt.
