Total Expense Ratio, Transaction Costs & Total Investment Charge

Total Expense Ratio (TER): This shows the charges, levies and fees relating to the management of the portfolio and is expressed as a percentage of the average net asset value of the portfolio, calculated over a rolling three years (where applicable) and annualised to the most recently completed quarter. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. The current TER cannot be regarded as an indication of future TERs.

Transaction Costs (TC): The percentage of the value of the fund as costs relating to the buying and selling of the Fund's underlying assets. Transaction costs are a necessary cost in administering the Fund and impacts fund returns. It should not be considered in isolation as returns may be impacted by many other factors over time including market returns, the type of Fund, investment decisions of the investment manager and the TER.

Total Investment Charges (TIC): The percentage of the value of the Fund incurred as costs, relating to the investment of the Fund. As fund returns are reported after deducting all fees and expenses, these costs (the TER & TC) should not be deducted from the fund returns. It is the sum of the TC & TER.

TER and Transaction Costs Breakdown

FUND CLASS	TER	TC	TIC
Class A	2.27	0.30	2.57
Class B1	1.42	0.30	1.72

TER + TC = TIC

Where a transaction cost is not readily available, a reasonable best estimate has been used. Estimated transaction costs may include bond, money market and fx costs (where applicable)

Statutory Disclosure and General terms & Conditions

Collective Investment Schemes in Securities (CIS) are generally medium to long term investments. The value of participatory interests may go down as well as up and past performance is not necessarily a guide to the future. An investment in the participations of a CIS in securities is not the same as a deposit with a banking institution. CIS are traded at ruling prices and can engage in borrowing and scrip lending. A schedule of fees and charges and maximum commissions is available on request from STANLIB Collective Investments Ltd (the Manager).

Commission and incentives may be paid and if so, would be included in the overall costs. Forward pricing is used. Fluctuations or movements in exchange rates may cause the value of underlying international investments to go up or down. Liberty is a full member of the Association for Savings and Investments of South Africa. The Manager is a member of the Liberty Group of Companies. The Manager carries full responsibility for this third party portfolio. This portfolio is valued on a daily basis at 15h00*. Investments and repurchases will receive the price of the same day if received prior to 15h00.* Prior to 8 August 2016, this portfolio was valued on a daily basis at 15h30

The Total Expense Ratio (TER) of a portfolio is a measure of the portfolio's assets that were relinquished as operating costs expressed as a percentage of the daily average value of the portfolio calculated over a period of usually a financial year. Typical expenses which are deducted from a portfolio include service charges, taxes, trustee fees and audit fees.

Additional information about this product, including brochures, application forms and annual or quarterly reports, can be obtained from the Manager, free of charge, and from the website: www.stanlib.com. The prices of unit trust funds are calculated and published on each working day. These prices are available on the Manager's website and in the South African printed news media.

Quarterly Comment

A late run in equities following the outcome of the US presidential election in November - the "Trump rally" – meant many markets recorded reasonable returns for the year. But in SA the JSE managed a 2.6% return and the strength of the rand meant that even this was better than SA investors would have done from most foreign markets. As a result, many SA investors will be glad 2016 is over. The themes that characterized 2016 were not consistent: on the one hand "deglobalisation" and falling bond yields, and on the other rising commodity prices and reflation. Commodity prices bottomed out in January and then rose strongly, suggesting a cyclical recovery, but bond yields continued to decline, responding to weak growth signals, monetary accommodation and safe-haven demand. The year began with Japan announcing it would implement a negative policy rate, and the Japanese 10-year yield dipped below zero as a result. More unexpected was the response of the yen, which strengthened substantially against the US dollar, exactly the opposite of what was intended. The declining-yield phenomenon was eventually enough to push German 10-year bond yields into negative territory as well; and the final straw was Brexit. In SA, political events caused a lot of volatility, but did not change the overall positive direction of the rand or the decline of bond yields, notwithstanding the looming threat of a credit rating downgrade. Some of the tensions that were evident in 2016 will continue to play out in 2017. The US will need to adjust short term interest rates to reflect the reality of a higher inflation rate and fuller employment; the impact of the Trump administration's growth policies could exaggerate the tension. The impact of higher US interest rates on other regions will also be an issue, unless growth accelerates to higher levels. More supportively, the global earnings cycle appears to have turned positive and should provide a stronger underpin. Bond yields are likely to rise further as growth and inflation push on. Europe in particular will remain a potential source of politically-generated volatility as the year goes on, since there are a number of upcoming elections (Germany, France, Netherlands) which may produce disruptive changes. For SA investors, the local earnings cycle should turn positive and inflation should decline; the potential for interest rate cuts later in the year should thus become clearer and better outcomes than in 2016 are thus likely. As elsewhere, however, political issues remain a potentially disruptive overlay and policy implementation will need to be properly executed. The prospect of a foreign debt rating downgrade has not gone away. Investors will need to remain diversified and cautious, but at this point can be hopeful of a better, if not less volatile, year.

The fund returned -4.3% for the quarter against the JSE All Share return of -1.4%. The relative performers came from the Industrial and financial sectors through the holdings in Bidvest, Hudaco, Firststrand, Standard Bank and Santam. The relative detractors which led to the quarterly underperformance came from the healthcare, consumer services and consumer goods sectors with the largest underperformers being Mediclinic, Naspers, Woolworths, Anheuser Busch InBev and British American Tobacco. The fund remains defensively positioned with a big focus on sustainable cash generating businesses.
