

Melville Douglas

Dynamic Strategy Fund

Quarterly Commentary

---

The quarter was another strong one for equity. The JSE was up over 7%, boosted at the end by strong performance from financials and other sectors sensitive to domestic SA demand. The portfolio's equity outperformed the market in the quarter, helped by its overweight position in financials but also by some specific retail exposure that were up very strongly. The underweight holding in Naspers continued to be a negative factor on a relative basis, and the fund's IT holdings did poorly. Relative performance was helped by the lack of any exposure to Steinhoff or its related companies. The Steinhoff collapse started with the company delaying the release of its 2017 financials, and then announcing "accounting irregularities" and firing the chief executive. The company has significant liquidity problems and it will be some time before the full story is revealed. It may turn out to be one of the largest corporate failures in SA history. We did not own it because we could not assess too many risks, and because the wider group has a poor governance history in respects we think are particularly important. The rand strengthened over 10% against the US dollar in the quarter, undermining the rand return from the global equity holdings which did well in dollar terms.

2017 produced high returns for equity investors, both globally and in SA. High returns globally were supported by strong earnings growth, but were also the result of much higher ratings: as the year progressed investors became more convinced that low interest rates were here to stay. 2018 may prove less straightforward globally. Strengthening economic growth and the US's additional fiscal push at a moment of low unemployment may prove to be a combination that tests the limits of the "new normal": the Fed may be forced into more aggressive action sooner than it thinks. In SA, nothing was straightforward at all: because of the politics, markets lurched from one cabinet reshuffle to the next rating downgrade threat and back again, and then had to endure the Steinhoff disaster. In the end, the ANC elective conference outcome (in which Cyril Ramaphosa was elected ANC president and who is therefore the country's president-in-waiting) was taken very kindly by markets even though it was ambiguous as to how much decision-making power rests in the new president's hands. The rand strengthened sharply and the long bond yield fell. Greater policy clarity, specifically on the issue of fiscal sustainability (which president Zuma has done his best to undermine) will emerge over the next quarter. This will be key for the outcome of the next rating review, due from Moody's in March. A more stable political environment will also boost consumer and business confidence; if so, the Reserve Bank has plenty of scope to support a recovery by reducing interest rates. Globally, many assets are priced for a continuation of strong growth and low interest rates, and prices are not cheap. Some SA assets are no longer cheap, but the domestic economy has lagged the world badly, and it now has an opportunity to correct that. The political situation is not fixed, and the global uncertainties will rise as 2018 advances. Investors need to be wary of prices, diligent regarding valuation and be sure that diversification is adequate.

Melville Douglas

Melville Douglas Investment Management (Pty) Ltd is a subsidiary of Standard Bank Group Limited.
Melville Douglas Investment Management (Pty) Ltd (Reg. No. 1962/000738/06) is an Authorised Financial Services Provider. (FSP number 595)

Disclaimer

This summary brochure has been prepared for information purposes only and is not an offer (or solicitation of an offer) to buy or sell the product.

This document and the information in it may not be reproduced in whole or in part for any purpose without the express consent of Melville Douglas.

All information in this document is subject to change after publication without notice. While every care has been taken in preparing this document, no representation, warranty or undertaking, express or implied, is given and no responsibility or liability is accepted by Melville Douglas as to the accuracy or completeness of the information or representations in this document. Melville Douglas is not liable for any claims, liability, damages (whether direct or indirect, actual or consequential), loss, penalty, expense or cost of any nature, which you may incur as a result of your entering into any proposed transaction/s or acting on any information set out in this document.

Some transactions described in this document may give rise to substantial risk and are not suitable for all investors and may not be suitable in jurisdictions outside the Republic of South Africa. You should contact Melville Douglas before acting on any information in this document, as Melville Douglas makes no representation or warranty about the suitability of a product for a particular client or circumstance. You should take particular care to consider the implications of entering into any transaction, including tax implications, either on your own or with the assistance of an investment professional and should consider having a financial needs analysis done to assess the appropriateness of the product, investment or structure to your particular circumstances. Past performance is not an indicator of future performance.